

The Bank of Ireland Regional Pulses bring together the views of households and firms around the country. The indices are calculated on a 3 month moving average basis and show that sentiment was down across the board in the July to September period compared with the June to August period.

This month's research also asked firms to identify the priority area for infrastructure investment. While housing continues to occupy the top spot in all regions – followed by transport in Dublin, Munster and Connacht/Ulster – the responses show energy, water and waste in second place in the Rest of Leinster and higher up the list than usual everywhere else.
